Inside Outside Gift Giving

Caren (not her real name) told Pastor Sue Ruggles of St. John, Easton that her daughter has trouble with an addiction and is incarcerated. While her daughter is in jail, Caren cares for her children, trying to keep them together in one house. Christmas is especially hard because there is not enough money. This is just one of many stories told in December.

Members of St. John downtown historic Easton, one block from the Northampton County jail, believe the children should not be punished because of their parent's mistakes or addictions. So every year, those inside the jail can request their family members receive gifts. This year, St. John expanded their work and filled the requests from 56 people inside the jail. Over 150 children received gifts that were wrapped and deemed age appropriate.

Toys for Tots helps with some of the toys; and a Thrivent Action Team Grant helps with the rest, including mailing seven packages for families out of the area. Children received love and prayers for every gift wrapped, and the caregivers who picked presents up were able to share their stories and receive encouragement. "Inside Outside Gift Giving" enables parents inside the jail to show children outside the jail they are loved while someone is trying again.

Talking About Racism

The White Privilege Conference April 4-7, 2018

In 2016 the Youth, Young Adult, and Family Ministry Team of the Synod received a grant to help young people learn about racism, and how they could help heal the wounds of racism. Several of them attended the "White Privilege Conference" which was held in Philadelphia. The next conference will be held in Grand Rapids, Michigan, April 4-7, 2018. Take a team of folks from your congregation. For more information visit: whiteprivilegeconference.com.

ORGANIZATION - Race Forward

Taken from their website:

"Race Forward's mission is to build awareness, solutions, and leadership for racial justice by generating transformative ideas, information, and experiences. We define racial justice as the systematic fair treatment of people of all races, resulting in equitable opportunities and outcomes for all; and we work to advance racial justice through media, research, and leadership development."

Check out their website at raceforward.org for all kinds of resources including links to training. A small group of youth and adults from our synod attended a training event in 2016 and found it helpful.

Evacuees to PA following Maria: LCS Helps Congregations Connect

Like many before who have sought refuge with friends and family following disaster, over 2,500 people have evacuated from the Caribbean to Pennsylvania following Hurricane Maria. As of mid-January, the number of displaced students in the Allentown school district was 367; in Reading, 229; and in Bethlehem, 160. There are also displaced students in Hazleton, Scranton, Wilkes Barre, and other places.

Because of support from strong Hispanic communities here, many families are becoming self-sufficient quickly. There are some circumstances, however, where the most vulnerable have significant needs, especially related to housing. LCS is seeking to be an ally to organizations and churches who are caring for newcomers. Some of the efforts underway include:

- Supporting the Reading Lutheran Parish in hosting Camp Noah this summer. Camp Noah is a disaster camp developed through the Lutheran Disaster Response network to support children recovering from disaster.
- Forming partnerships with Lutheran leaders who are leading outreach efforts to families who are providing temporary housing to friends and family from Puerto Rico.
- Helping congregations connect with the most vulnerable families in their communities in order to help them with rental assistance and other support.
- Working with Pennsylvania Emergency Management, FEMA, and other faith based and disaster organizations to coordinate efforts for helping people make decisions for their families.
